A weekend in Schorndorf

On 27th and 28th, June, 2009 my friend Fang Zhen and I spent a wonderful weekend with Family Weidmanns, Renate and Eberhard. They have a beautiful villa in a small village, Schorndorf, which is the hometown of Daimler.

Schorndorf is a quiet and old town. Family Weidmanns lead a leisure life living in the hill. We had a small hiking tour with Eberhard around their town. It has a beautiful lake and continuous farmland.

In these two days Renate and Eberhard tried their best to show us Schorndorf, Esslingen and Stuttgart. We visited Ludwigsburg, Porsche museum and even a nice concert in Music University. We had breakfast, lunch and dinner all together, just like a real family. We all enjoyed a lot the typical German food and dessert.

Renate and Eberhard have been to China once three years ago. We had a lot of topics to communicate which relates to the interesting experience and the difference between China and Germany.

Thanks to "ASISST" we got the chance to have a two-day-life in a German family. It is nice to understand how is a normal German life by ourselves. And also thanks Renate and Eberhard we had a wonderful time to be with them.
