The FIN Club – Friends of Computer Science

The purpose of the FIN Club is to connect future, current and former students, staff, lecturers and people interested in the field of computer science.

The FIN Club works closely with the computer science faculty, assisting them with first semester student orientation as well as other events which improve contact between instructors and students within the department of computer science.

Our aim in the area of alumni work is to achieve very close contact between the alumni and the faculty, including the sharing of experiences and information.

To this end, the alumni are invited to annual faculty meetings, among other events. In order to demonstrate the club’s communal atmosphere, the idea is to offer a platform for computer science students and alumni on which they can organise and carry out projects and other activities.

The Ulm University association Wirtschaftsphysik Alumni is a non-profit organization which aims to connect graduates, students, lecturers and anyone else who is interested in the fields of business physics or physics.

The association has a special interest in fostering direct communication between active members and alumni. Every year, Wirtschaftsphysik Alumni organises various events in cooperation with the FS to provide current and former students the opportunity to come together. The FS Alumni Barbecue is one example, a casual setting for members to meet and discuss ideas or exchange experiences.

Wirtschaftsphysik Alumni also provides support for the annual graduation ceremony as well as the Christmas lecture, which is open to all the faculties. Additional activities include presentations and symposia in which alumni members relate their experiences and give details on their professional careers.

A mentoring programme and an internet-based communication platform facilitate direct communication between the association’s members.

The alumni gatherings are a particular highlight, bringing alumni together in an informal setting to relive old times and catch up on new developments.
