

Faculty of Engineering, Computer Science and Psychology
Institute of Psychology and Education

Dept. of Applied Emotion and Motivation Psychology
Albert-Einstein-Allee 47
89081 Ulm, Germany

Head of Department
Prof. Dr. Cornelia Herbert

We, the Department of Applied Emotion and Motivation Psychology (Head: Prof. Dr. Cornelia Herbert) offer positions for:

Student Assistants (Studentische Hilfskräfte)

min. 20 hours/month
max. 80 hours/month

with a scientific background in psychology, computer science/engineering, neuroscience, or both, and experience in experimental research as well as programming skills (e.g. Python, Matlab, ...).

Your Tasks:

- Assistance in neuroscientific research projects of the department (e.g., mobile EEG).
- Assistance in neuroscientific teaching concepts of the department.
- Work in an interdisciplinary team.
- Gain insights into theories and models of the human brain as well as into psychological applications in the scientific domains of human-computer and brain-computer interaction.

Duration of the Contract:

Min.: 6 months

Max.: 3 years

Working hours: min. 20 hours/month, max. 80 hours/month

How to Apply?

Please send your application to alexandra.mathiesen@uni-ulm.de (secretary's office).

Application Documents: (All in one pdf document.)

1. Email subject: Student Assistant Application_Mobile Lab
2. Motivation letter and CV (together max. 3-4 pages)
3. Transcript of Records (Bachelor / Master)

The deadline for applications with start in October 2020 is August 31st.

The deadline for applications with start in November 2020 is September 30th.

We are looking forward to your application!