

Join us as we come together virtually, July 5-9, 2021

Despite the difficulties we continue to experience with the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, the global actuarial community will unite as one and celebrate our community's resilience this summer for the 24th International Congress on Insurance: Mathematics and Economics, the first IME Congress to be held virtually. In the spirit of coming together as one, this event is jointly hosted by the University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign and the Pennsylvania State University in the United States; Ulm University in Germany; and the University of New South Wales \(UNSW Sydney\) in Australia.

All researchers, practitioners, and students are cordially invited to join us to recognize the past, celebrate the present, and envision a united future. To ensure maximum accessibility for participants from all time zones around the globe, the conference will be five days, July 5-9, 2021 (UTC-05:00).

Please hold the dates and join us at this unique event. All researchers in related areas are invited to present their latest work and exchange research ideas with peers from around the world. There will be five high caliber keynote speeches representing the full span of interdisciplinary research in insurance mathematics and economics presented by:

- Patrick Brockett (University of Texas at Austin)
- Michel Denuit (Université catholique de Louvain) and Christian Robert (CEREMADE, Université Paris-Dauphine)
- Robert Jarrow (Cornell University)
- Olivia Mitchell (Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania)
- Ruodu Wang (University of Waterloo)

This virtual conference also commemorates the 40th year of publications of Insurance: Mathematics and Economics, which has become one of the top-ranked international academic journals in insurance research.

Be on the lookout for more information in the coming months, including how to register, schedule updates, a call for abstracts, and more. Be sure to follow the conference website to stay up-to-date on the latest plans. If you have any questions, please contact us at ime.congress.2021@gmail.com.

We look forward to coming together globally this July—United as One.
