The coloured circles around each research focus indicate which faculties are involved. The research focuses are marked with symbols to indicate the topics to which each particular research focus is contributing. The size of the coloured areas and the number of symbols reflect neither the proportion nor the magnitude of the scientific contribution.